

Failure to comply

You have not complied with the digital notification and disclosure obligation.

The digital notification and disclosure obligation has not been met – information about the transport, consignment and reference to the declaration/goods number has not been submitted.

This time, Norwegian Customs have completed the customs processing of the transport without compliance with the notification and disclosure obligation.

As an operator, you have received information about the changes implemented from 15 September 2026, and Norwegian Customs have noted your lack of compliance with the digital notification and disclosure obligation.

As an operator of the means of transport, you are expected to comply with the digital notification and disclosure obligation in future border crossings.

The required information must be submitted to Norwegian Customs:

- Either by you, as the operator, or by the carrier you work for, or
- by contacting a freight forwarder/customs representative for help with the submission.

Future non-compliance can lead to sanctions in the form of fines.
